News this week...

We are having some exciting times here at UCS, with applications rolling in for our two executive positions. I look forward to sitting with our panels and selecting the perfect candidates for our school!

Website update:

We will be having a website update over the coming weeks. The look of the page will still remain the same, but the content from years gone by will be removed and fresh information on teaching and learning and whole school business updated. We appreciate your patience!

Clean Up Australia Day:

Ungarie Central School will be hosting its own Clean Up Australia Day on the 27th February. At 12:50pm, students will grab some rubber gloves and garbage bags and give the place a once over! Once we are complete, everyone can have a free sausage sizzle – sounds like a good deal to me!

Habit of Mind Awards:

Each Friday, staff hand out Habit of Mind Awards to their students. Each fortnight, a different learning muscle is focused on, so make sure you check them out!

Collaboration

For the next two weeks students at Ungarie Central School will be learning about the importance of collaboration.

When you use this learning muscle you respect the point of view of others and share information. It is about understanding the ground rules of group work. When you are ‘collaborating’ you are aware of how you respond to others and you manage your feelings effectively.

Collaboration encourages students to cooperate, take turns, express their feelings, empathise and listen.

Our class has been working on our Literacy so far this term, focussing on the book of Roald Dahl, “The Enormous Crocodile”.

It is a great story about a very hungry (and enormous!) crocodile that comes up with some ingenious plans to acquire some lunch. His favourite food is nice, juicy little children!

As the photo shows, Emma has done a wonderful job with our back wall. It has come up a treat! When we have finished making our enormous crocodiles, we will display them here, as well as some writing pieces that will be done soon.
